

Why Do People Who Want a Second Opinion or Third-Party Evaluation Use Our Service?

- Second opinions and third-party evaluations offer a unbiased perspective for the issue at hand, since it does not have a vested interest in the builder's construction, insurance claim, contractor's repair, or with anyone else that you may be dealing with
- May potentially help you to save money for abatement, mitigation, and restoration efforts by helping to prevent future disasters, as well as identifying the origin of current problems
- A second opinion is vital for the discovery of discrepancies with investigation reports.
- A third-party opinion can provide you with a deeper understanding that you would not get otherwise. In addition, this type of perspective can make it so you are better equipped with the information vital to making an informed decision, which will lead you to the optimal solution.
